

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

IN presenting to the public the present number of the Dover Directory, — the first which has been published for many years, — the Compiler begs leave to say that it has been prepared in compliance with repeated requests, yet not without many misgivings on his part, in regard to its execution in a manner satisfactory to himself, as well as to those whose wants it is designed to meet. And, notwithstanding the unwearied pains which have been taken to make the book accurate and reliable, yet he is aware that it is by no means faultless. He feels, indeed, that it must have many imperfections: an entire inexperience in any work of the kind, together with certain disadvantages under which he has labored, not only in the compiling, but also in the publication of the work, must be his apology for any inaccuracies with which the book is chargeable.

To those who have kindly extended to him their patronage in the way of advertising, and to those also who have furnished him with miscellaneous matter for the Directory, the Compiler desires to return his sincere acknowledgments. To them, as well as to the public generally, he submits his work, in the hope that it may receive the approbation of which he has endeavored to make it worthy.

SKETCH OF DOVER.

DOVER being the oldest town in the state, and one of the first settled in the country, it having been the next settled place to the immortal Plymouth, its history will doubtless be interesting, not only to the inhabitants of the city itself, but to those of the state and the country. As early as 1614, Capt. John Smith sailed from England with two vessels for the new world, and navigated between the Penobscot River and Cape Cod. In exploring the region of country lying between these two points, he discovered Piscataqua River. With this new country he was greatly pleased, and made a map of it, which he presented to Prince Charles, who called the country New England. In 1662, Capt. John Mason and Sir Fernando Gorges together obtained a grant of all the territory lying between the Sagadahoc, or Kennebec, and the Merrimac Rivers, and extending far into the interior, and called the country Laconia; Capt. Mason having already a grant of the country lying between the River Naumkeag and the Piscataqua. In the following year, they sent over men to settle in this new country: among them were David Thompson, a Scotchman; and Edward and William Hilton, London fishmongers. They made two settlements,—one by Thompson, near the mouth of the Piscataqua, called Little Harbor; while the Hiltons settled farther up the river on a narrow neck of land formed by the union of the Bellamy or Back River with the Piscataqua, which place was then called by the Indians Winnichiharnat, afterwards by the settlers Northam, now Dover. In 1624, the following year, Thompson disliking the location of his settlement at the mouth of the river, it was abandoned, and he moved to an island which was granted to

In 1629, the country between the Merrimac and Piscataqua Rivers received the name of New Hampshire. The settlement at Dover was, for several years, quite small, grew but little, and consisted in 1631 of only three houses. At this time, Edward Hilton and others received grants of the surrounding country; so that Dover then consisted of what is now Dover, Somersworth, Rollinsford, Madbury, Durham, Lee, Stratham, and parts of Greenland and Newington. In 1633, several families came from England, and considerably increased the colony. In 1634, in a well-selected spot, about one-and-a-half miles from Dover Point, they erected their first meeting-house, and surrounded it with intrenchments, to protect themselves from the Indians. This was the first meeting-house erected in the state, and traces of these ancient fortifications are yet visible. During this stage of the history of Dover, the inhabitants attended church thoroughly armed with loaded muskets, being always ready for an attack from the Indians. For many years the settlement at the Neck comprised the greater part of the population; the meeting-house, which was there, being the only place where the inhabitants, from far and near, assembled for the transaction of business. Gradually the business and population of the town began to concentrate at the Cochecho Falls, on Cochecho River (where Dover City now is), about four miles from the original settlement. Here Major Waldron, in 1638, erected a Saw and Grist Mill; and the settlement was called Cochecho, after the river and falls. In 1653 the second meeting-house was built by Major Waldron; a turret was placed upon it in 1665, and a bell was used to call the people to church; a drum having up to that time been used for that purpose. Quakers made their appearance at the settlement in 1662; and three sisters, Quakers, were, on account of their religion, whipped out of town by order of Major Waldron.

In 1679, New Hampshire was separated from Massachusetts; and at that time it contained only 209 voters, 61 of whom were in Dover.

Dover, in early years, suffered much from the Indians, who made repeated attacks upon the settlement, and continually harrassed the settlers. In 1675, by a stratagem, Major Waldron caught about 200 Indians who had been known to have caused much trouble to the settlers; and some of them, who had been guilty of great atrocities, he hung; the others he sold into slavery. This the Indians regarded as a breach of faith, and were terribly excited; and, in revenge, determined by a general and concerted effort to exterminate the whites. And on the 27th day of June, 1689, after long years of comparative peace, they had their revenge. On this night, several Indian squaws, who, as was the custom, slept at the Garrison Houses, which were five in number, at the given signal rose simultaneously and opened the doors; the Indians then rushed from their hiding-places upon the terrified inhabitants, and made terrible havoc among them. Major Waldron, who was in one of the Garrison Houses, was the principal object of their revenge. Though an old man of fourscore years and more, he defended himself bravely; but they fell upon him, and, after binding him strongly, cut him to pieces in the most cruel manner, inch by inch, amid the jeers and yells of the excited savages. In this massacre, twenty-three persons were killed, and twenty-nine made captives. They burned five or six houses, besides mills and other buildings. The Indians were, however, soon overtaken and entirely routed.

The Indians continued their attacks from time to time, till about 1723. In 1724 a great many attacks were made by them, in every direction; and they greatly troubled the settlers, so that they formed regularly organized military companies to defend themselves from these attacks of the savages. After this time they received but little trouble from the Indians, and all went on prosperously. Business gradually concentrated around the falls; and the town continued in growth and prosperity, till it became what it now is,—the pleasant and prosperous city of Dover.

MAYNARD & NOYES' BLACK WRITING INK.

Testimony of parties who have used it for more than a quarter of a century.

REGISTRY OF DEEDS OFFICE, }
BOSTON, January 10, 1859. }

MESSRS. MAYNARD & NOYES :

Gentlemen, — I am glad that longer use of your Writing Ink enables me to repeat the testimony given in its favor many years ago. I have used it in this office thirty-seven years, and my oldest records are as legible and black as when first written. This rare quality for permanence renders it invaluable for State and County Records, and all mercantile purposes, where it is important that the writing should remain legible, and unchanged in color by the lapse of time.

HENRY ALLINE, Register of Deeds.

BOWDOIN PUBLIC SCHOOL, }
BOSTON, Jan. 7, 1857. }

MESSRS. MAYNARD & NOYES :

Gentlemen, — I have used your Ink in the Writing Department of this School the past thirty years, and take great pleasure in renewing my testimonial of its superior quality. It flows freely from the pen, its color is brilliant and permanent, and it combines all the necessary and desirable qualities of good ink.

JAMES ROBINSON, Writing Master.

The following testimonial from Dr. Chilton is added AS A SUPPLEMENT TO ANY OF HIS PREVIOUS TESTS.

From experiments instituted by me, in 1855 and 1856, and repeated within the past six months, I am fully satisfied that Maynard & Noyes' Writing Ink is entitled to the pre-eminence it has always sustained for legibility and permanence of color.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist.

The brain, heart, and stomach have been called the trinity of life. In the treatment of disease very particular attention will be given to these organs. In other words, attention will be given to all those diseases which are observed to be most frequent, and the greatest outlet to human life; such as pulmonary consumption, fevers, &c. Experience has amply shown, that, in these and many other diseases, a happy and prosperous issue is mainly dependent on a judicious treatment, founded on an early detection of their insidious origin.

N. B. — Chronic, or long-standing diseases, and diseases of women and children, will receive an attention worthy of their importance.
